The Entropy Plague was the one hundred and ninety-seventh story in Big Finish's monthly range. It was written by Jonathan Morris and featured Peter Davison as the Fifth Doctor, Sarah Sutton as Nyssa, Janet Fielding as Tegan Jovanka and Mark Strickson as Turlough. It concluded a trilogy of the Fifth Doctor's return to E-Space that began in Mistfall.

The Entropy Plague (audio story) | Tardis | Fandom
‘ The Entropy Plague ’ is a narrated story with the Doctor, Tegan, Turlough, and Nyssa each telling his or her perspective of events to Adric over the course of an episode. This actually works exceedingly well and allows a much more intimate and personal affair than is usual, giving each character a chance to shine as different pieces of the puzzle slowly slide into place.

The Entropy Plague written by Jonathan Morris and directed by Ken Bentley. What's it about: A Great Darkness is spreading over E-Space. Entropy increases. In search of a last exit to anywhere, the TARDIS arrives on the power-less planet of Apollyon, where the scientist Pallister guards the only way out – a mysterious portal. But the portal needs power to open, and the only power Pallister can draw on is the energy contained within the molecular bonds of all living tissue...

Doc Oho Reviews...: The Entropy Plague written by Jonathan ...
Entropy, a product of the second law of thermodynamics, was the slow, irreversible process of breakdown and decay whereby a complex, organised system inevitably degraded into more chaotic ones. After being driven by the Chronovore Artemis (PROSE: No Future) to the alternative universe of the Silurian Earth, the Seventh Doctor explained that the only force capable of invading a TARDIS was the primal force of the universe itself, the entropy of time.
