Lifespan development explores how we change and grow from conception to death. This field of psychology is studied by developmental psychologists. They view development as a lifelong process that can be studied scientifically across three developmental domains: physical, cognitive development, and psychosocial.

I very much enjoyed reading Chapters 17 (Physical Development and Aging) and 18 (Cognitive Development and Aging) of the 13th edition of Life-Span Development. The material is up-to-date and the different connections that are integrated within the chapters render the material quite accessible to today's students." --Arthur Kramer University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Define Lifespan Development Perspective. What is lifespan development psychology? Boyd and Bee (2009) explain that psychologists who study human development have recently adopted the lifespan perspective which "maintains that important changes occur during every period of development and that these changes must be interpreted in terms of the culture and context in which they occur" (p. 4).
