New Orleans is a city that loves to celebrate, but you don't have to wait for a specific day on the calendar to throw down. Second Lines – neighborhood parades thrown by African American civic organizations known as Social Aid and Pleasure Clubs – are weekly parades that kick off every Sunday outside of summer. Folks gather somewhere in the city (often in the Trem é); a band leads the way, dancers parade in their finest clothes, and the Second Line – a following crowd, which should ...
